The pandemic that started early 2020 did not only affect the profession of architects but the education of architectural students as well. Among other factors, the shift in the academic calendar caused the delay of architectural graduates who would later take their apprenticeship.

Sugbu has observed the need and scarcity of apprentices among Sugbu members. With that, Sugbu has initiated a survey for Sugbu members on how we can assist in their need for mentees.

In a fast-paced world where work seems to be taking a huge part of our lives, UAP Sugbu invited Mrs. Lollette Oliva-Alipe, author of "Place Nice and Fight Fair" to share her insights on work-worth balance and relationships.

This GMM and CPD event titled: "Work Isn't Worth It" was held last March 26, 2022 via Zoom with twenty-four participants in total.

"It [Work] should not define us or limit us...into a one-dimensional character," shared Mrs. Lollette Alipe.

LESSON 1

DO NOT EXPECT JUST ACCEPT

Remember you are oriented differently. Pieces of the puzzle don't just fall into the right places. They need to turn around this way and that until they fit. Just acknowledging how different, how unique each person is, is a major step forward understanding, acceptance and less conflict.
